B

January 4th
Dear Ms. Smith,

Happy New Year! How are you spending your winter vacation in Japan? I really enjoyed your English classes in Japan, and it's hard to believe that I've lived here in Norway* for nine months now. Before I left Japan, you told me that your daughter was going to work at a winter sports shop. How is she doing? I hope you are both enjoying your work.

Here in Norway, I just had my first New Year's celebration. My friends in college are from other cities, so they went back to visit their families for the holidays. I stayed with a friend's family. People in Norway celebrate the New Year in a different way. As you know, in Japan, people wear nice clothes, and families enjoy good food together. This is the same in Norway, but some things are really different. Children go to other people's houses and sing songs. After they finish singing, the children get candy. I had a lot of fun giving candy to children.

Today was my first day at school this year. I want to take the history class this year because I want to learn more about this country. I remember you said that the best way to learn about "now" is to know the country's history.

You are a good English teacher, so I can speak English now. But when I came here, I couldn't speak any of their language. I tried hard and now I can talk a little with the people here. I made a lot of friends, too. I'll write another letter to you soon.

Love,
Akane

- 1 to become a teacher in the country.
- 2 to make more friends all over the world.
- 3 to know more about the language the people speak.
- 4 to learn more about the country.

C

Helping the Earth

The Earth is becoming a worse place to live on because of pollution.* One of the reasons is that so many things are wasted.* For example, if we use more paper, we need to cut down more trees. If you are wasting anything that you can use again, it is not good for the Earth.

There are many groups and programs to help the environment. You do not have to join these groups to make the environment clean. There is an easy way to start doing this today. It does not take much time: just waste less.

How do you do this? It is very easy. To help the environment stay clean, you should not buy anything that you will not use. Think before you buy. Only buy the things you really need. Another thing you can do is to bring your own bag when you go shopping. If you do this, you will not have to get a new paper or plastic bag at the store. In some countries, you have to pay to get plastic bags at stores. Even bringing your own chopsticks* helps. Today many restaurants in China and Korea do not give customers disposable chopsticks.* The restaurants use metal or plastic chopsticks or the customers bring their own chopsticks.

These may be small things, but it is important for people to understand and do something to help make a clean environment. If everyone around the world does small things, it can make the Earth better.

* pollution: 汚染おせん

* waste: ~を無駄むだにする
